

CREDIT KNOWLEDGE AND CONFIDENCE

Spring and summer mean warmer weather and increased home sales, according to C.A.R. data. However, a new Experian survey suggests many homebuyers dread the process because they're unaware of their credit scores.

of prospective buyers who know their credit scores feel significantly more prepared to buy a home

54%
do not know their scores

of potential buyers are confident about their credit status of future buyers say they are financially prepared to buy a home

LONDON PROPERTIES

Taking Action

58%

of future homebuyers are working to improve their credit in order to qualify for a better home loan interest rate

55%

are paying off debt

54%

are paying bills on time

28%

are keeping balances low on credit cards

20%

are protecting credit card information from fraud/identity theft

16%

aren't applying for or opening new credit accounts

SOURCE: Experian Home Buying and Credit: Survey, Report 2015

CALIFORNIA
ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS®